

”For us, it’s important that our staff have the very best conditions for performing good work in a healthy environment.”

The type of work we do, processing metal and producing steel constructions and construction site metalworking, leads to challenges in terms of occupational health and safety. For us, it’s important that our staff have the very best conditions for performing good work in a healthy environment. That’s why we’ve installed Njord air purifiers, giving us significantly better air quality where staff are not exposed to harmful particles and our premises are kept clean. I would happily recommend Njord to anyone facing the same challenges and in need of a cleaner and healthier work environment.
