

CASE STUDY:
Team Mojo / Head office, Stockholm

”Nowadays, we’ve got generally cleaner premises and better air indoors, and have clearly made a difference for the better for staff with allergies.”

We decided to bring together all the areas of our business at our premises in Skarpnäck, combining our offices, machinery showroom and warehouse all in one place. The ground floor is home to the warehouse and the showroom where we greet our customers and show off our coffee machines, while our offices are located on the mezzanine.

Having clean premises and being able to offer our employees a healthy work environment is important to us. We had air purifiers from Njord installed because this sort of facility gets dirty and dusty quickly, and we have staff with allergies. Nowadays, we’ve got generally cleaner premises and better air indoors, and have clearly made a difference for the better for staff with allergies. We also got rid of the odours that can sometimes come from packaging materials in the warehouse because the air purifier is fitted with an ionisation device, so now the only smell floating around the premises is the smell of delicious, freshly ground coffee!
